

Our History

Nelson Howard Baughman moved to Dover, Pennsylvania in 1875. He founded N.H. Baughman's Marble Works near the town square and began transporting marble with a two-horse team from nearby York, Pennsylvania. Nelson chiseled each of his designs by hand, mostly using sandstones as bases. Baughman quickly became well known for his honest nature and the fine craftsmanship of his sculpted monuments.

Over the years, interest in the business, since named Baughman Memorial Works, continued to grow with younger generations. Nelson taught his son Harry Uriah, who taught his son Nelson Merle, whose son Donald took an interest in crafting memorials. He oversaw the construction of a new shop in 1961. Today, Donald, now retired, sometimes contributes in an advisory capacity; his eldest daughter Sharon Baughman-Witmer and her husband work there alongside the next and sixth continuous generation.

Though the industry has steadily changed over the years through updated technology and more efficient ways of production, traditional family values, honesty, and integrity still continue.

About Us

We look forward to crafting and maintaining a work of art for your loved one.

Because a memorial remains for centuries as a family record, you can't make a more enduring decision. That's why time and care should be spent when selecting such a timeless investment.

Our expert staff has more than a century of combined experience assisting Central Pennsylvania families during the process of selecting and designing a lasting artistic tribute to honor their loved ones.

We craft our memorials using fine-quality materials to ensure their beauty lasts for hundreds of years. Our sixth-generation family-owned and -operated, full-service memorial firm is York County's oldest.
